FUNCTION AND ORIGIN OF DR. BRONNER'S SAL SUDS INGREDIENTS

Sodium Lauryl Sulfate (SLS): This surfactant cuts grease and dirt, generates copious suds and biodegrades quickly and completely. Previously SLS was conflated with SLES (Sodium Lauryl Sulfate) which can be contaminated with trace carcinogenic dioxanes, but SLS has no such issues and cannot possibly create nitrosamines. Studies have consistently shown that SLS is safe to use in low concentrations and in products that are meant to be rinsed off (both are true of Sal Suds).

Coco-Betaine: Mild and easily biodegradable, coco-betaine is formed by combining coconut fatty acids with betaine (a nature-identical synthetic so-named because it was first discovered in sugar beets). This foam-boosting cleansing agent buffers irritation caused by SLS.

Decyl Glucoside: This powerful grease-cutting surfactant is especially mild and quickly biodegradable, and is made by combining glucose from corn with fatty alcohols from coconut and palm kernel oils. Decyl glucoside not only works with SLS to cut dirt and oily soils with exceptional ease, but also combines with coco-betaine to give Sal Suds smooth mildness.

Abies Siberica (Siberian Fir) Needle Oil and Picea Glauca (Spruce) Leaf Oil: Pure essential oils from fir and spruce give Sal Suds its wonderful aroma. Most other cleaners use synthetic fragrances or cheap harsh pine stump oil. For more info visit www.drbronner.com.

Sal Suds solidifies when cold. Put in warm water / room to re-liquify.
